

Brandon Peay

Executive Vice President of Skills

Brandon Peay is the Executive Vice President of Skills at Pluralsight, Inc. (NASDAQ: PS), the leading technology workforce development company that helps companies and people around the world transform with technology. In this role, Brandon manages the entire Skill product organization, including product management, product strategy, product marketing, pricing and packaging, and all product-specific operations.

Brandon is passionate about Pluralsight's mission of creating progress through technology that lifts the human condition. He joined Pluralsight in December 2014 as Head of Corporate Development and FP&A and moved into the role of Chief of Staff to the CEO in June 2015. Most recently, Brandon served as Pluralsight's Chief Strategy and Operations Officer where he shouldered the responsibility for strategy, business operations, partnerships and M&A. Prior to joining Pluralsight, Brandon held several positions at Bain & Company, where he helped solve a variety of strategic problems for corporations in various industries by identifying relevant insights then implementing solutions that produced results.

Brandon believes strongly in being a life-long learner. As an avid reader, he is always on the lookout for new ideas and thought pieces on leadership development, technology and business strategy. Brandon holds a BS in Economics from Brigham Young University and an MBA from The Wharton School of Business. He has considerable experience working in international markets and in a variety of industries including technology, health care, aerospace and defense, construction and the non-profit sector. When he's not promoting Pluralsight's mission and encouraging others to up their learning game, you'll find Brandon playing, coaching or watching sports—especially his son's flag football and basketball teams.