

Joe DiBartolomeo
Chief Revenue Officer

Joe DiBartolomeo is the Chief Revenue Officer at Pluralsight. Joe joined Pluralsight in July of 2016. Over his 25-years-long career, he has demonstrated a track record of delivering superior results. He understands what activities drive profitable customer behavior and how to build teams that facilitate those activities.

If foresight were a super power, Joe DiBartolomeo would be wearing tights and a cape to work. He has a unique ability to see what's around the corner before others—a skill that has helped him lead various regional and national sales teams to deliver triple-digit growth and billions of dollars in sales. His career path has taken him from Grumman Aerospace and CA Technologies to Oracle and Dun & Bradstreet. He also served as President of two companies, Purisma and Qlik, before joining Pluralsight's management team.

At Pluralsight, Joe is responsible for the Sales and Customer Success organizations. He believes deeply in Pluralsight's mission and platform, and his goal is to expand the reach of Pluralsight with businesses and individuals around the world.

Joe is most proud of the impact he has had on the teams he has led. Joe is the rare leader who inspires his team, earns the trust of his customers, and delivers on promises to shareholders. What's more, Joe takes the time to nurture those around him so they, too, can grow and find success.

Joe attended the New York Institute of Technology and is a member of the Medair Board of Directors. He loves to spend his spare time with this family, especially watching his teenage boys play baseball. Joe's love of baseball borders on fanatical. His wife, Terry, once gave him a plaque that reads, "We interrupt this marriage for baseball season."