Pluralsight CXO Nate Walkingshaw to Speak at Mind the Product San Francisco

Walkingshaw Will Present on Building Businesses That are Adaptive to Continuous Technological Change at the World's Largest Product Conference

SILICON SLOPES, Utah (June 12, 2017) - Pluralsight, the enterprise technology learning platform, today announced that its CXO Nate Walkingshaw will be attending and speaking at Mind the Product San Francisco on June 13, 2017.

During his session, "The Heart of it All," Walkingshaw will discuss how the rate of technological change is fundamentally altering the way businesses operate, and will outline steps companies can take to adapt to this new world and become a technology-driven business on speed. Walkingshaw presents at 10:50 a.m. Pacific Time at Davies Symphony Hall.

Walkingshaw recently co-authored the book, "Product Leadership: How Top Product Managers Launch Awesome Products and Build Successful Teams," an Amazon best seller in User Experience, Product Leadership and Website Usability categories. Currently trending at No. 1 on Product Hunt, the book covers building products in the fast-moving technology landscape. He will be signing copies from 1:00 - 2:30 p.m. at the Pluralsight booth, located in the Orchestra Tier of the hall.

Walkingshaw will be joined by some of the most recognized and respected leaders in the product community at this year's Mind the Product conference, including ProdUX Labs Author and Founder Melissa Perri, Greylock Partner Josh Elman, PhotoBox CPO Dave Wascha and Oculus Head of Product Design Engineering Caitlin Kalinowski.

In its fifth year, Mind the Product San Francisco attracts top product leaders and developers. The annual event is the largest product conference in the world, bringing together the global product community to move product development and design forward.
